Hybrid | April 2-3, 2025 | 9:00am – 5:00pm PT

Call out to Law Students

On April 2-3, 2025, the Assembly of First Nations (AFN) will be co-hosting a National Justice Forum on Revitalization of First Nations Laws and Legal Orders, alongside the British Columbia First Nations Justice Council, which aims to provide First Nations an opportunity to discuss the revitalization of First Nations laws and legal orders that will inform the implementation of the First Nations component of the Indigenous Justice Strategy. The Forum will provide a space for First Nations throughout Canada to share knowledge and advance efforts to revitalize First Nations justice processes, laws, and legal systems.

The AFN is inviting law students attending law schools in Canada who are interested in participating in the forum in-person, to submit a one-page statement indicating why you are interested in the topic of the forum, Revitalization of Justice Systems, along with a resume for consideration. Please send submissions to the AFN Justice Sector, via email to cboomhour@afn.ca, by no later than Friday, February 28, 2025. The registration fee, travel and accommodations will be covered for up to 10 law students. Those selected will be asked to provide a brief reflections paper after the event.
