Social Service Delivery
(Pre-Employment)

NIIGAANIIN

Niigaaniin Services provides social supports to the North Shore Tribal Council Communities.

The ever-changing needs of each guide everything we do at Niigaaniin. As the last place for someone to go for help, we strive to leave no one behind.

Niigaaniin Services are available to anyone in the Robinson Huron Treaty Area.

As a part of Mamaweswen, Niigaaniin Services provides social supports to Indigenous Peoples In the Robinson Huron Treaty Area – in Our Communities and Off-reserve.

Wahnapiitae First Nation community members are eligible for all Niigaaniin services through a service agreement with the band and Mamaweswen.

Community Members can access services through Assigns from our Partners or a self-referral themselves.

Everyone does the same intake with our team to set a baseline for where they are at, and our services begin.

December 1, 1965

The 1965 Indian Welfare Agreement is a cost-sharing arrangement between the Province of Ontario and the Minister of Indian and Northern Affairs (INAC). Under this agreement, INAC was obligated to reimburse Ontario for certain expenses related to the welfare services provided to Indigenous people in the province.

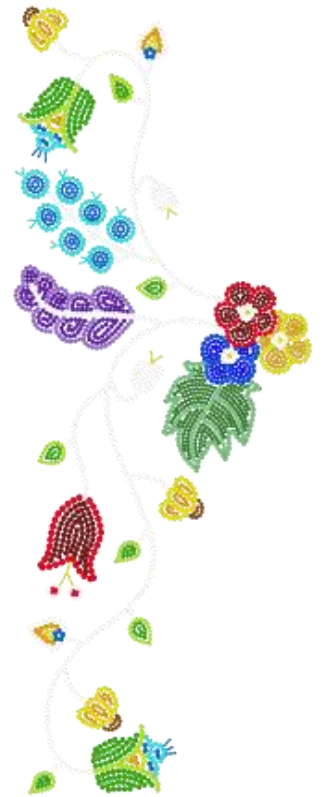

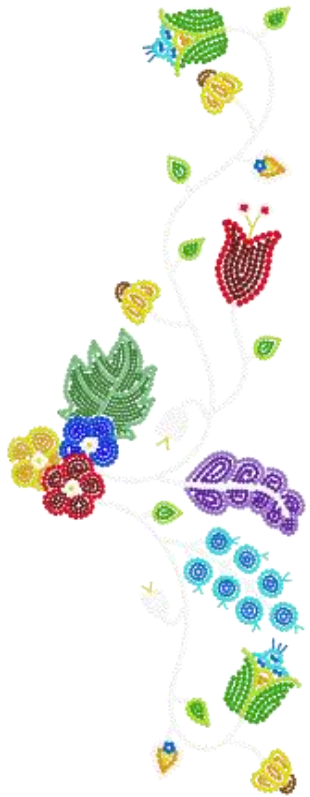

- First Nations were not a signatory to this agreement.
- The 1965 Indian Welfare Agreement remains in force.

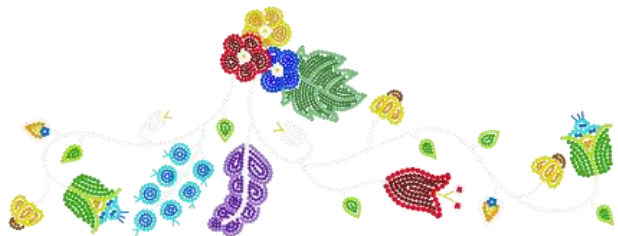

Case Management, For Our People By Our People.

- GIIN, is “You”
